Nothing further is known about this publication.

German Democratic Report

Nothing further is known about this publication.

The Society also published special pamphlets and 'themes' on different subjects and in a variety of languages.

- e. Remarks: Access to the offices of the society is severely limited. Foreign visitors are received in specially designated offices by the Deputy Secretaries General and Department heads. There is information which indicates that the society provides financial assistance to German cultural and friendship organizations in Western countries.

DIRECTORY OF FRIENDSHIP AND CULTURAL SOCIETIES

PART I

COMMUNIST COUNTRIES

Introductory notes. This directory covers the thirteen countries in which the Communist party is in power--that is, the usual twelve of the Communist bloc plus Yugoslavia. The directory is arranged alphabetically by country and, under each country, the organizations appear in alphabetical sequence within three general categories, as follows: nationally oriented roof organizations (such as the Union of Soviet Societies for Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries) are discussed first; regionally oriented organizations (such as the Armenian Society for Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries or the Soviet Association of Friendship with the Peoples of Africa) are covered next; and nation-to-nation bilateral organizations (such as the USSR-Japan Society) appear last. Throughout the directory the most recent date of information appears in a parenthesis. Known members of the local Communist party are marked by an asterisk. Double asterisks indicate known members of the central committee of the Communist party or persons known to be members of an organ of the central committee.

- d. Publications: A Russian-language fortnightly journal titled Druzhba (Friendship) which was founded on 15 April 1955. Beginning with a circulation of 2,000, by April 1956 this figure had reached 57,000 and it was planned that circulation would increase to 67,000 in May 1956. Recent information reflects that the publication was closed down as a result of the Sino-Soviet ideological altercations. In 1956 its chief editor was one LIN Lang (2651/2728). Although the text for Druzhba was prepared in Peiping, the Russian-language edition was primarily circulated in the Soviet Union through the Soviet-Chinese Friendship Society which printed it in Moscow for the Chinese. Similarly a Chinese-language publication of the same name (Su-chung Yu-hao) was printed and distributed in China from a text prepared in Moscow.

Foreign Schools

The so-called foreign schools in Czechoslovakia for students from Africa and Asia (those not connected with the Czech Communist Party (KSC) or with the trade unions) are reported to be under the jurisdiction of the Institute for Contacts with Abroad.

Special Department for Relations with Czech Citizens Living Abroad (Oddeleni pro Styky s Krajany a Krajanskymi Organizacemi v Zahranici) (otherwise known as the Czech Foreign Institute)

Address - Karmelitska 25, Prague.

Chairman (1960) Marie TROJANOVA

Secy Gen (1960) Karel OLIVA

This department handles relations with Czech citizens who live abroad or with foreigners of Czech or Slovak descent, and maintains contacts with their national organizations. It was earlier believed that the Czech Foreign Institute had been completely submerged within the Institute for Contacts with Abroad. It appears now, however, that the CFI retains a degree of autonomy. It is still listed by name and address in the Prague telephone directory. The CFI's activities appear to be under the direction and guidance of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

d. Publications:

Ceskoslovensko Svet (Czech World)

This is a weekly newspaper which bears the legend "Weekly of the Czechoslovak Foreign Institute" and thus would seem to be directed primarily at Czechs living abroad.

- e. Remarks: The Institute for Contacts with Abroad is said to be directly under the control of the Foreign Department of the Central Committee of the KSC, and is also under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Ministry of Foreign Trade which subsidize it. It has been reported that the Intelligence Department of the Ministry of Interior is in close contact with the Institute and also has some control over its activities. The Institute for Contacts with Abroad concerns itself with all international conferences and events which have no official or state character, but in which Czechoslovakia and especially the KSC have an interest. These events and conferences are those in which no official state organ or its missions abroad may become involved. The primary task of the Institute for Contacts with Abroad is the care of official or private persons (with the exception of those invited by the government) who have been asked to come to Czechoslovakia and in whom the Czechs have an interest.

Czechoslovakia-China Friendship Association

- a. Date established: Sometime in 1953, all sinology students in Prague were informed that they were automatically members of the Czech-Chinese Friendship Association, which was said to be connected with the Oriental Institute. Few of the students paid dues, however, and they did not know whether this association really functioned or merely existed on paper.

Czechoslovak-Soviet Friendship Society (Svaz Ceskoslovensko-Sovetskeho Pratelstvi)(SCSP) (Union of Czechoslovak - Soviet Friendship)

- a. Date established: An association of Friends of the Soviet Union (Svaz pratel SSSR Union) was established by the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia in 1933. It was a small organization with a headquarters in Prague and a few branches in major cities. After almost six years of inactivity during World War II, the association was revived in 1945. At the same time a new organization, the Society for Cultural Cooperation with the Soviet Union (Spolecnost pro kulturni styky se SSSR) was established. The two organizations merged after February 1948 to create the present Society.
- b. Address: The headquarters of the Central Committee (Ustredni Vybor) of the SCSP is in a five-story building at Smetanovo nabrezi 18, Prague. A headquarters for Slovakia, Slovensky Vybor SCSP, is at Tolsteho ulice 3, Bratislava. Branches of the Society exist in every region (kraj) and district (okres). In addition to the headquarters of the society, Prague has a regional committee for the Prague Region and a city committee for the city itself. Both of these committees have offices at Vaclavske namesti 36, Prague. Every district within the Prague Region has a committee, the addresses of which are listed in the Prague telephone book. The SCSP also has committees in industrial installations, commercial enterprises, government offices, schools, housing developments, etc.
- c. Officers: As of 1960 the SCSP was the second largest mass organization in Czechoslovakia with about 2,100,000 members, who made up 20 regional, 297 district, and about 22,000 local units. The society has two types of employees: a permanent staff of paid employees and unpaid workers. The permanent staff consists of political workers all of whom are party members, and of economic-administrative workers (Communists and non-Communists). The unpaid employees usually work on a voluntary basis (they are usually lecturers, teachers in small towns and villages, accountants in farmers' cooperatives, etc.) and are rewarded for their volunteer activities with occasional free trips to the Soviet Union or to one of the other Communist countries.

(In addition there are a clerk-secretary, and four lecturers or "directors.")

Branch V: International Activities

Chief Ilse DOLANSKA*
(Handles all trips of Czechoslovak nationals to the USSR and visits of Soviet guests to Czechoslovakia.)

(In addition there are a clerk-secretary and four office workers with liaison functions.)

~~SECRET~~

Branch VI: Financial Affairs

Chief

Milos HANIS*

(Handles all budget and fiscal activities for the SCSP and maintains control over financial expenditures in accordance with the annual budget. Works closely with the Central Auditing Commission of the SCSP.)

(In addition there are a clerk-secretary, four accountants and an office worker.)

Branch VII: Administrative

Chief

Josef KOBITA

(Takes care of purchase of supplies; cooperates closely with Branch VI on budgetary questions; organizes receptions; and makes all arrangements for meetings of the Central Committee of the Society and other important events.)

(In addition there are a clerk-secretary, an administrative office worker, a supply room supervisor, an accountant, a shipping clerk, a telephone operator, a doorman-messenger, an office worker in charge of transportation, five drivers, and four charwomen.)

In addition to the Secretariat in Prague, there is also an identical body in Bratislava, Slovakia, which is called the Secretariat of the Slovak Committee of the SCSP (Slovensky Vybor). The following members of that Secretariat are known:

Praha-Moskva (Prague-Moscow)

Description: A monthly publication devoted to intellectual articles, obtainable in bookstores, but not very much in demand (having a circulation of only 5,000). Published by the Czech-Soviet Institute (qv ).

Ctení o SSSR

Description: A bi-weekly magazine devoted to pictures two crowns. Circulation of about 30,000.

Pritel SSSR (Friends of the USSR)

Description: A bi-weekly magazine for SCSP officials.
Published in the form of a small brochure of about 32 pages and with a circulation of approximately 22,000. Officials of district level and above receive it free of charge. Officials below the district level pay 20 crowns per year for it. Deals mostly with organizational questions.

Poznavame SSSR (We Get to Know the USSR)

Description: A bi-weekly brochure for SCSP officials who lecture on the USSR, containing directions to ensure that the lecturers do not deviate from the Party line. Distributed free of

Sestina Sveta v Obrazech (One Sixth of the World in Pictures)

Description: A monthly magazine containing twelve colored pictures on a specific subject relative to the USSR (kolkhozes, Lenin, etc.) suitable for exhibition in the showcases of various SCSP establishments. Has a circulation of about 12,000 and sells for two crowns.

LKR

Description: A monthly magazine published by the Lidove Kursy Rustine Section of the SCSP, which has charge of Russian Language courses (i.e., Branch IV). Distributed free of charge to the officials who organize these courses.

- e. Remarks: In January 1961 Rude Pravo claimed that the SCSP had more than 2.3 million members. Approximately one half to two thirds of the SCSP members, approximately three fourths of the SCSP officials and paid employees, and the majority of the members of the SCSP Central Committee are members of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia. The SCSP is under the control of the Section for Mass Organizations of the Communist Party and all decisions of the leadership of the SCSP must be approved by the Communist Party. Liaison with the Mass Organization Section of the CP is apparently a function of the secretary general (sometimes referred to as the central secretary or the chief secretary of the SCSP Secretariat).

d. Publications: In March 1959 it was reported that the Society would initiate publication of a bulletin beginning in April 1959, and an illustrated monthly in the Arab language beginning in July 1959. In April 1959 it was reported that the publication GDR Review (see section 'd' of the Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries, above), in Arabic, was sent to 10 countries and was published in 27,000 copies.

e. Remarks: Branches of the Society are to be found in Leipzig and Dresden. Although the society is actually a department of the Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries, an effort is being made to give the appearance that it is an independent organization.

German Society for Cultural and Economic Exchange with Poland (Deutsche Gesellschaft fuer Kultur und Wirtschaftsaustausch mit Polen)

a. Date established: Unofficially founded in East Germany in Fall 1949; officially constituted in December 1949. The original name of the society was "Helmut Von Gerlach Society." In April 1960 the name was changed to the "German-Polish Society for Freedom and Good Neighborliness." It is not known when the Society assumed its present name.

- b. Address: In late 1951 it was reported that the headquarters of the Society was located in East Berlin in the Haus des Friedens-Komitee, Jaegerstrasse.
- c. Officers: The present officers of the Society are unknown.

Subordinate to the Central Board are the regional boards (Bezirksvorstaende) (16), composed of an average of 60 honorary members and six employees. The secretariat of a regional board is composed of a chief secretary, who has coordinating functions; a secretary who is in charge of the regional agitprop section; and, in larger regions, a secretary in charge of higher education institutes and a secretary for Science and Culture (Arts and Sciences).

Subordinate to the regional boards are the district boards (Kreisevorstaende), having an average of 30 honorary members, two paid secretaries and, in larger districts, one instructor.

Under each regional and district board there is a House of Friendship. In addition, Friendship Automobiles are used for propaganda in rural communities.

Subordinate to the district boards are the basic cells in plants and residential areas (Wohngruppen). In larger cities there are intermediate organizations between the district boards and the basic cells: these are the city district boards.

d. Publications:

Freundschaft und Aktion (Friendship and Action)

Editor-in-Chief	Josef SCHMIDT
Editor	(fmu) RADULOVICZ (female)

This publication is issued twice a month (since January 1960) and, since May 1960, has been circulated in 60,000 copies. It publishes decisions made by the Central Board and gives information on the organization's program.

Presse der Sowjetunion (Press of the Soviet Union)

This newspaper is issued twice a month and gives information on Soviet inventions and operating methods. Up to about April 1960 it had a circulation of about 80,000.

Freie Welt (Free World)

An illustrated magazine which, in 1957, possessed a circulation of about 100,000. It is for general public consumption and carries articles about the USSR, the satellites, and occasionally about Western countries. It appears weekly.

Other publications sponsored by the Society and known to exist in 1957 were: the bi-monthly journal Soviet Science, the monthly journal Soviet Literature, the "Book of the Month" (a translation of the work of some modern Soviet author), and the "Little Youth Series" (books in this series are published about every two weeks and run the gamut from fairy-tales to spy, adventure and detective stories of either Russian, German, or east-bloc origin.

Publishing Houses

Information obtained in 1957 stated that the Press of the Soviet Union was published by the Congress Publishing House, located on Thielmannplatz in Berlin in the Parliament House (Haus des Nationalrats). The publisher was the Press Office of the Minister President of the GDR. Another report obtained in 1957 reflected that another publishing house connected with the Society was Verlag Kultur und Fortschritt, Berlin W 8, Taubenstrasse. It is, perhaps, the publisher of Free World. It is directly under the authority of the Central Board.

- e. Remarks: A precursor of this society was the "Society of Friends of Soviet Russia," headed by Ernst THAEIMANN (THALMANN) (presumably the one after whom Thalmannplatz is named). The official number of members of the society in April 1960 was 3.5 million. However, it has been reported that the actual number is closer to 1.8 million only. Membership in the individual regions varies from 60,000 to 140,000. According to 1957 information, direct connections with the Soviets can only be made via the Central Committee of the SED and only by the following persons: members of the Secretariat of the Central Board, the chairman of the Secretariat, or the president of the organization.

Hungarian-Soviet Friendship Circles

Several thousand of these circles have been formed. In Szolnok and Veszprem Counties, for example, circles have been formed in nearly all districts in 1957. In that same year there were known to be 30 such circles in Sztalinvaros and 40 in Eger.

- d. Publications: Orszag Vilag (Our Country and the World) Formerly called Uj Vilag (New World) appearing weekly. It was reported in late 1957 that it's circulation had dropped to 2,000 from a past high of 60,000. Szovjet Kultura (Soviet Culture), once published, was discontinued in 1956.
- e. Remarks: At the end of June 1957, the Society, which used to be a state organization, was converted into a 'private' association.

Chief Clerk's Office

Composed in 1955 of a chief clerk (assigned by the KLP Central Committee), three organizational instructors, and a confidential documents officer.

~~SECRET~~

Propaganda Department

Chief (assigned by CC/KLP)

Lecture Section

Composed of a Chief and two instructors in 1955.

Research Section

Composed of a chief and two research instructors in late 1955. This section is mainly concerned with the organization and direction of all the special sub-committees designed to perform various research activities regarding the USSR and holding meetings to present research results to the public. As of late 1955 the society possessed ten such sub-committees:

- Social Science Sub-Committee
- Philosophical Sub-Committee
- Natural Science Sub-Committee
- Literature Sub-Committee
- Music Sub-Committee
- Fine Arts Sub-Committee
- Drama Sub-Committee
- Agricultural Science Sub-Committee
- Politics and Economics Sub-Committee
- Medical Sub-Committee

Each of the above sub-committees, which operated under the direction of the Research Section, was comprised of a chairman, a vice-chairman, and 30 to 40 members including a standing committee.

Popular Culture Department

Chief (assigned by the Chairman of the Society)

Russian language instructors

In 1955 this department possessed two Russian language instructors.

Exhibits Manufacturing Section

Composed of one section chief and two instructors.

~~SECRET~~

Motion Picture Instructor

This individual was responsible in 1955 for the operation of the Pyongyang Popular Motion Picture House.

Publishing Section

Composed of one section chief and two instructors in 1955, this section was charged with the control of the Korean-Soviet Friendship Company, particularly concerning its work plan and management. This company was divided into an Editing Department (including an editor-in-chief and 20 to 25 personnel) and a Printing Factory.

Accounting Department

Chief (normally assigned by the KLP)

Bookkeeping Section

Composed in 1955 of a section chief and at least two bookkeepers.

Administrative Accountant

In 1955 there was only one individual in this post.

Local Motion Picture Houses Section

Comprised of one section chief and two instructors.

Staff Instructor

In 1955 the society had one staff instructor, assigned by the KLP. He handled all personnel affairs concerning employees of the society who were employed by order of the Central Committee chairman of the society, including section chiefs and other minor officers working with the Central Committee and local committees.

Library

Operated by a chief and about three instructors in 1955.

KLP Committee

The chairman of this committee (in 1955) was assigned to his post by the Central Committee of the KLP and he was responsible for organizing, directing and indoctrinating activities concerning all KLP members employed by the Central Committee of the society and its subordinate local committees.

Below the national level, the society possesses provincial committees, city committees, county committees and, at the lowest level, teams.

d. Publications:

Korean Soviet Friendship (Chosso Ch'inson)

Editor-in-Chief (1955)

PAK Chae-song*

In 1955 this was a four-page weekly paper carrying features regarding the USSR and the activities of the Society.

Korean-Soviet Culture (Chosso Munhwa)

Editor-in-Chief (1955)

PAK Chae-song*

Printer (1955)

Labor Press Company

In 1955 this was a monthly magazine running stories and research activities about the USSR.

- e. Remarks: In 1955 it was reported that the chairman and vice chairmen of the society were assigned to their posts by the Central Committee of the KLP (Korean Labor Party, Communist). In mid 1960 the society allegedly possessed more than four-and-a-half million members and had close to 28,000 primary organizations at factories, mills, agricultural cooperatives, educational establishments and offices.

- e. Remarks: The Fatherland Front apparently is a coordinating body for all mass organizations in North Vietnam, including the bi-lateral friendship societies (both in North Vietnam and their Nambo branches). One of the functions of the Fatherland Front (found under "Culture and Education" in its statutes) is to "...expand cultural exchanges with foreign countries." It is believed that the Fatherland Front is controlled by the United Front Work Department of the Lao Dong Party. Note that the Secretary General of the Fatherland Front, NGUYEN Xuan Thuy (aka Xuan THUY), is the Chief of the United Front Work Department. At one time it was thought that the Department of Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries was the directing body for bi-lateral cultural and friendship organizations in North Vietnam. However, this department has been reported to be a government body within either the Ministry of Culture or (possibly) the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and, as such, probably does not control the friendship societies. It is noteworthy that PHAM Huy Thong, of the Secretariat of the Fatherland Front, is a member of the department.

In 1955 the Central Committee of the association was composed of 35 members. The association possesses branches all over North Vietnam and even possesses a Nambo (Southern Region) Committee, which controls its affiliates in South Vietnam. In the branch organizations in 1953 the secretary or secretary general of the branch was usually also the head of the local Chinese Affairs Bureau and a member of the Lao Dong Party. A branch of the association was established

In the Management Office of ARLUS there were, in 1957, two persons responsible for the documentation center; one responsible for the press department; one responsible for the "Russian Book" (Cartea Rusa) (in 1952 this was Constantin BALMUS); and one responsible for the ARLUS Library.

There are branches of ARLUS in each district capital and in each important town of the region. There are sub-branches in each main village of the raion; and in public institutions, high schools, and factories. There are ARLUS clubs in each village or state agricultural enterprise and in a great number of agricultural collectives. In 1948 ARLUS possessed 12,000 branches.

The headquarters of ARLUS in Bucharest, in 1956, maintained liaison with the department of "schools." This liaison controlled the schools belonging to ARLUS and at the same time controlled by inspection all schools in Rumania as regards the effective teaching of Marxism-Leninism and of the Russian language.

d. Publications:

Veac Nou, official organ of ARLUS. This journal, in 1956, published the following editions:

- (1) A weekly in the Rumanian language with a circulation of about 300,000.

(2) A weekly in Hungarian, German, Serbo-Croat, Ukrainian and Yiddish.

(3) A monthly illustrated edition in Rumanian with a circulation of about 500,000.

e. Remarks: In 1956 ARIUS possessed a claimed membership of 3,000,000.

UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS (USSR)

Union of Soviet Societies for Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries (Soyuz Sovetskikh Obshchestvo Druzhby i Kulturnoy Svyazi s Zarubezhnyimi Stranami)

- a. Date established: 17 February 1958, replacing the former organization known as the All-Union Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries (Vsesoyuznoye Obshchestvo Kulturnoy Svyazi s Zagranitsey) (VOKS) which was created on 8 August 1925. The union actually controls and coordinates the activities of all the organizations for friendship and cultural relations in the Soviet Union, whether regional or bi-lateral in nature. These societies share with the union not only their address (in the case of Moscow-based organizations), but also a common organizational structure (i.e.: chairman, presidium, board, collective membership and individual membership - collective membership being given to clubs, factories and other groups). Friendship House, located at the same address as the union, is used by the various societies and cultural groups for meetings and exhibitions.
- b. Address: Moscow - Kalinin 14-16, Moscow K-9.<sup>1</sup>
Leningrad - A mansion on Pyotr Lavrov St. in Leningrad.
- c. Officers: (elected in February 1958)

Presidium (12 members in 1958, but apparently now numbers 13)

Chairman	Nina Vasilyevna POPOVA
1st Vice Chmn	Viktor I. GORSHKOV
Vice Chairmen	Yevgeniy V. IVANOV Grigoriy M. KALISHYAN Nikolay T. SIZOV Nikolay A. VIZZHILIN Tatyana Mikhaylovna ZUEVA (ZUYEVA) (not listed in 1958, but reported as a Vice Chairman in 1960)

Described as a "senior editor" (no publication mentioned) for the Union in July 1958: Mr.

Harry EISMAN

(defected from the US to the USSR in 1934; exiled in Siberia from 1949 - 1953)

- e. Remarks: The heads of departments and sections of the union have been variously referred to as 'chairman,' 'president,' 'director,' etc. of their particular units. As a compromise they are herein referred to simply as 'chief.' Nina POPOVA has stated (in early 1960) that the special sections alone include more than two thousand persons "prominent in the field of science and culture."

d. Publications:

Soviet-Chinese Friendship (Sovetsko-Kitaiskaya Druzhba)

A magazine initiated in January 1958 and possessing, by mid-1960, a circulation of 75,000. Although published by the society in Moscow, the text for Druzhba was prepared in Peiping. Similarly, a Chinese language version of the magazine (Su-chung Yu-hao) was prepared by the society in Moscow and printed in Peiping where it was distributed through the China-USSR Friendship Association. It is reported that both publications were discontinued for a while in 1960-61 as a result of the ideological controversy between the CPSU and the CPC.
